Teachings

CSR

3.75 ECTS: 30 hours face to face

Today it is widely accepted that in the presence of market failures, firms narrowly focused on profit maximization are likely to trigger some of the most pressing issues that afflict market economies. But a lot has changed over the past few decades. Within this framework, appropriate analytical skills will be fostered among students to deal with the main tenet of a socially responsible firm, i.e. how to reconcile the production of profitable goods with corporate social responsible strategies. In order to allow students to develop these skills, the course's pedagogy is based upon moral debates fueled by case studies.

Humanistic Management

3.75 ECTS: 30 hours face to face

Humanistic management course teaches the importance of the balance of profit and human issues within an organization. Individual differences, psychological safety in a team, leading in a supportive way, managing organization through dialogues among stakeholders – all these issues are covered with a humanistic teaching mode. It requires the consideration of a multitude of influences and stakeholders and must be built on a solid ethical basis and a deep understanding of management opportunities and responsibilities.
